| Alliance of Educational Associations (AEA) | AEA is a partnership of educational organizations that provides information and acts as a positive influence on legislation to create the best possible educational system for students in Washington State. Members:
- Washington Association of Maintenance and Operations Administrators (WAMOA)—Educational facilities professionals providing a safe, secure and healthy learning environment for student achievement.
- Washington School Nutrition Association (WSNA)—School nutrition professionals supporting student learning through the provision of healthy school meals. | Dr. Mitch Denning, AEA Consultant

| American Association of School Administrators (AASA) | AASA, the School Superintendents Association advocates for equitable access for all students to the highest quality public education and develops and supports school system leaders.
Founded in 1865, AASA is the professional organization for more than 13,000 educational leaders in the United States and throughout the world. AASA members range from chief executive officers, superintendents and senior level school administrators to cabinet members, professors and aspiring school system leaders. | Dr. Dan Domenech, Executive Director

| Association of Educational Service Districts (AESD) | The purpose of the Association of Educational Service Districts is to provide communication and coordination among ESD Boards for educational advocacy; for fostering leadership and partnerships; and for collaboration within the education community.
OSPI and ESD superintendents have agreed to commit to establish and maintain the OSPI/AESD partnership. They are working together to realize an open and coordinated system focused on shared statewide initiatives that collaborates on goals, accountability measures, and deliverables, and that engages in continual improvement efforts to strengthen the efficacy of the partnership on behalf of Washington’s students.
ESDs link local public and private schools with one another and with state and national resources. ESD cooperatives and programs enhance educational opportunities because they realize significant savings, allowing districts to send more dollars directly to the classroom and provide special services that might otherwise be unavailable to their regions. | Jessica Vavrus, Executive Director, OSPI/AESD Network

| Association of Washington School Principals (AWSP) | A leading voice on K–12 education for more than 40 years, the Association of Washington School Principals is the state’s preeminent professional association for principals, assistant principals and principal interns. Their mission is to support principals and the principalship in the education of all students. AWSP serves about 3,500 members from elementary middle and high schools as well as policymakers and administrators. Membership opens the doors to opportunities that help enhance development as a leader and advance a career path. There are professional development seminars, award-winning publications, networking events, and a career center. | Dr. Scott Seaman, Executive Director

| School Information and Research Service (SIRS) | SIRS is a service governed by a board of 15 representatives. The need for a service that provides current research data relating to administrative responsibilities in Washington State public schools and authorizing school districts to pay for such services was recognized by the legislature in 1975.
SIRS members include Washington State public school districts, educational service districts, and public educational management/leadership associations on the SIRS Board. The annual fee for school district membership is based on the school district’s student population. Association members pay a flat fee.
All communications, publications, and access to online products are sent directly to the school district superintendent or to the association CEO. He or she determines how SIRS publications/products will be distributed. | Andy Wolf, Executive Director

<td>Washington State Board of Education (SBE)</td>
<td>The mission of the State Board of Education is to lead the development of state policy for K–12 education, provide effective oversight of public schools, and advocate for student success. It is committed to using equity as a guiding principle in its decision-making related to its statutory charges, strategic planning, and in developing annual policy proposals for consideration by Washington State Legislature and Governor. The Washington State Board of Education is committed to successful academic attainment for all students. Accomplishing this will require narrowing academic achievement gaps between the highest and lowest performing students, as well as eliminating the predictability and disproportionality in student achievement outcomes by race, ethnicity, and adverse socioeconomic conditions.</td>

<td>Washington State Leadership Academy (WSLA)</td>
<td>The mission of the Washington State Leadership Academy is to develop and support school leaders to create educational systems where powerful instruction helps all students succeed. WSLA believes that knowledgeable, reflective, and courageous school and district leaders will be able to build collaborative, accountable learning systems where powerful teaching and learning are understood and practiced in every classroom and in adult interactions. Creating systems that keep learning for all students as their central work will result in improved student learning, especially for students who have traditionally under-performed. WSLA is a partnership between WASA and AWSP.</td>
